Coyote Creek Flood Protection Project Draft Environmental Impact Report

Dear Neighbor:

Great news! The Coyote Creek Flood Protection Project (CCFPP) Draft Environmental Impact Report (DEIR), as of July 12, 2024, is now available for public review through August 26, 2024. You can find it at this link: <https://valleywater.org/public-review-documents>.

Valley Water is hosting a public meeting on July 25, 2024, to explain the environmental review process and guide our community on submitting written comments about the DEIR. Additionally, participants could learn more about the Coyote Creek Flood Protection Project. During this hybrid public meeting (6:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. at the Roosevelt Community Center, 901 E. Santa Clara Street in San José), participants can ask questions and receive project updates. If you prefer to join virtually, use this Zoom link: <https://delivr.com/2k8nx>. Dial-in option: +1 669 900 9128 (Webinar ID: 865 0661 9557).

The DEIR covers various environmental aspects, including, but not limited to, biological and cultural resources, geology and seismicity, hazardous materials, and noise and vibration. Community members have 45 days to review the document, which assesses flood risk reduction improvements along approximately nine miles of Coyote Creek between Montague Expressway and Tully Road in San José.

For any inquiries about the meeting or the project, feel free to email community liaisons Mark Williams (mwilliams@valleywater.org) or Mike Potter (mpotter@valleywater.org). We look forward to seeing you at the upcoming public meeting!

Best regards,

Valley Water
