Hi Gitta,

Good question! The calculation we have is based on the State Controller's Office (SCO) issued guidance, however, the lawsuit that the California School Boards Association filed against the SCO on the guidance is still not settle yet, and we do not know when will the court hear the case. Currently we are still looking at the impact ranges from 0- 30%.

Regards,
Jacelyn

Jacelyn,

Thank you for this information. Is the County still advising only program certain percentages of the calculated revenues.

Can you provide guidance for both FY 2021/22 and FY 2022/23.

Thanks,

Gitta

Subject: Excess ERAF Distribution update

EXTERNAL SENDER

Dear Colleagues,

The Excess ERAF information for the current year distribution and the next fiscal year preliminary estimate are available on our website, please see below for the links.

For Cities: <https://controller.sccgov.org/cities/excess-eraf-distribution-cities>

For Special Districts: <https://controller.sccgov.org/special-districts/excess-eraf-distribution-special-districts>

The calculations and projections are based on the State February reports, the decline in the next year's Excess ERAF is mainly due to the increase in the school funding requirement as the State increased the per student funding rate for schools and special educations.

Should there be any questions, feel free to contact us.

Regards,
Jacelyn

FY 2022-23 Distribution Preliminary Estimate

PDF 85 KB

A portion of property tax revenue goes to the Educational Revenue Augmentation Fund (ERAF) to support local school districts.

When the amount contributed to ERAF is more than the minimum cost of funding local schools, excess funds are returned to the County, Cities, and Special Districts.
